

How will we sustainably feed 10 billion people by the year 2050?

Technology, innovation and best management practices help us use only a fraction of Earth's surface to feed a growing population.